Bachelor of Science in Human Services

Work toward a career helping others with a bachelor's degree in Human Services

A degree in Human Services opens you up to a rewarding career, making a positive impact on the lives of others. Human services professionals implement strategies that assist our most vulnerable populations. Graduates of UB's Bachelor of Science in Human Services go on to have meaningful careers in education, social services, community organizations, clinical settings, group homes, and in-home care settings. The Human Services program at UB prepares you for exciting opportunities to make a difference in your life and the lives of others.

Improve the lives of others

Human services professionals help people facing some of life's biggest challenges. In this program, we prepare you with the knowledge and tools to promote positive change in individuals, families, and communities. You'll work with single parents, recovering addicts, victims of abuse, people experiencing homelessness, and more. Your support and direction will provide hope and resources for people as they rebuild their lives.

Gain real world experience

Classes are taught by experts in their fields. Their diverse experiences and teaching strategies will prepare you to meet the challenges of this in-demand field. In this program, you'll have access to internship opportunities at Human Services agencies and organizations in our region. At University of Bridgeport, we offer three pathways to completing your degree.
